

NATION MOURNS DEATH OF ITS PRESIDENT

Complex Task of Guiding Nation Is Undertaken By New President

Men Close to Late President Roosevelt in Military And Diplomatic Matters Confer with President Harry S. Truman Who Announces He Will 'Carry On' Roosevelt Policies

By JACK BELL

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 13—(P)—A dazed and questioning world today watched Harry S. Truman pick up the banners of war and peace that slipped from the lifeless fingers of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Stunned by the shock of its leader's passing, a mourning nation gave solid backing to the gray-haired man in the gray business suit who became president of the United States at 7:09 last night.

Chiefs of state and military affairs assembled at the White House today to help President Truman assume wartime leadership of the government.

Secretary of State Stettinius, whose knowledge of the international situation was second only to that of the late President Roosevelt, arrived to join Mr. Truman at 10:15 A. M. (EWT). Top military commanders were due minutes later.

Stettinius was ushered into the room where President Truman was working.

The military chieftains summoned were Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the late president's military adviser; Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the Navy; General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Secretary of War Stimson, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

These grave consequences dealt with a question mark raised throughout the world by the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt—intimate of Allied war leaders—and the intricacies of international relations. What of the new chief of state, Harry Truman of Missouri?

The new President announced he would try to carry on the Roosevelt policies. He asked the cabinet to stay on, gave assurance that the United Nations Conference will open in San Francisco April 25 on schedule.

There were reports at the White House, not yet official, that Mr. Truman may address a joint session of Congress next week, possibly Tuesday.

After a 20-minute minute conference with the new president, Stettinius left hurriedly for the State Department. Striding through a crowd of reporters, Stettinius said: "No comment. Sorry. No comment."

Mr. Truman's first conferences apparently gave immediate direction to his statement after taking the oath last night that one of his prime tasks would be to prosecute the war vigorously on all fronts.

The assumption was that the new chief would devote the major portion of his day to familiarizing himself with military conditions all over the world.

As one of his first official acts, President Truman was putting the finishing touches to a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning tomorrow in tribute to the memory of his predecessor, Franklin Delano Roosevelt who died at Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday.

Funeral services for the late president will be held in the White House east room tomorrow with burial in the family plot at Hyde Park, N. Y., Sunday morning.

As Truman began his first full day in the office to which he ascended from the vice-presidency, he summoned Hugh Fulton, New York and Washington lawyer, to work with him in the executive offices.

Fulton, former counsel for the Senate War Investigating Committee of which President Truman once was chairman, has been mentioned for attorney generalship if changes are made in the cabinet.

These transcended such important questions as the likelihood that the new chief executive will want to meet as soon as possible with Prime Minister Churchill, whom he knows slightly, and Premier Stalin, whom he knows not at all.

Domestic problems could be pushed aside temporarily, too, left to a cabinet that may see some changes later.

This is directed to you folks who like the better things in life, and to remind you that next Tuesday at 8:15 P. M. you will have a rare opportunity of hearing one of the finest a capella choirs in America, when the Capital University Chapel Choir of 50 selected voices appears at the high school auditorium under auspices of the Washington C. H. Organ Club, which is being assisted by the Cecilian Music Club in making it possible for the noted choir to come here.

A number of years ago when the Capital University Chapel Choir was brought here and gave a program at Grace Church, the large audience was thrilled with the entertainment, and unhesitatingly declared it was the finest musical organization of its kind that had ever appeared in the city.

And Tuesday night you are once more going to have the opportunity of hearing one of the finest choral programs ever presented here.

The big choir will be under direction of Prof. Ellis Snyder, director of the music department of Capital University, whom I have known for many years.

I have heard the choir under his direction a number of times in various cities, and have heard dozens of other choirs from all over America, and I can tell you frankly, there is none better than the group of highly trained singers coming from Capital U.

The Washington C. H. Organ Club decided to bring the choir here in an effort to help fund for the organ in the high school auditorium, so it is a worthy cause. The price of admission is small. Many times I have paid $3 or more for tickets for entertainment not as good as you will hear Tuesday night. I know what the Chapel Choir can do, and for that reason I am telling you that it ranks at the top among the choirs of the country, and Prof. Snyder is one of the finest choir directors in the nation.

TRUMAN NEIGHBORLY DESPITE NEW RANK

(A reporter (Tony) Vaccaro covered Harry Truman's campaign for the vice presidency. Today, when Mr. Truman rode to the White House to take up his duties as president, Vaccaro was one of two personal friends who accompanied him.)

WASHINGTON, April 13—(P)—Harry S. Truman asked me today to let his old friends know that his sudden elevation to the presidency hasn't changed his neighborly spirit.

If he can't get together informally with his pals—especially the boys of the old 129th with which he served during the World War—it's because of the duties of his new job and not because Truman wants it that way.

The president asked me to pass that word along as we rode to the White House this morning from his modest Connecticut Avenue apartment.

"You know, if I could have my way," the new president said, and there was a plaintive note in his voice, "I'd have them all come in without knocking."

JAP LOSS HEAVY IN AIR ATTACK

Yanks Invade Last Major Island of Philippines

By LEONARD MILLMAN

(By the Associated Press)

American forces broke up a powerful Japanese air offensive by shooting down 116 enemy planes off Okinawa yesterday and in an offensive of their own landed on Bohol, the last major island in the Philippines to be reinvaded.

U. S. submarines have sunk 15 more Japanese ships, the navy announced today, bringing their wartime bag to 1,098. The newest haul included an escort vessel, a gunboat, two destroyer transports, two tankers, eight freighters and a naval auxiliary.

One American destroyer was sunk and several other ships damaged in the day-long air battle off Okinawa, 325 miles from Japan. Nippon's suicide pilots centered the attack—their second disastrous attempt within a week—on the invasion fleet and supply dumps on the west coast of the island where Yanks unloaded 55,000 tons of material in the first ten days of the invasion.

A Japanese communique claimed eight U. S. ships were sunk and 11 damaged.

Breaking the six months' official American silence on Japan's highly publicized suicide corps, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said they have met with only "negligible success." They have sunk a number of destroyers and damaged some major fleet units, but no battleship, fast carrier or cruiser has been sunk.

In the central Philippines the American division invaded Bohol Island, routed a small enemy garrison near Tagbilaran and pushed rapidly inland to join guerrillas who control most of the island.

And husbands killed or prisoners, and other hundreds of thousands serving in a lost war, the burden of sustaining the Reich's economic life has fallen on the children, wives and old folks. They are tilling Germany's rolling green acres, filling in bomb cratered fields and repairing damaged homes.

U. S. Ninth Army Within 45 Miles of Reich Capital After 60 Mile Dash Which Cut Off Denmark; Third Army Sweeps Toward Czechoslovakia; Nazis Admit Germany Has Sunk 'Very Low'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

By the Associated Press

U. S. Ninth Army tanks in a 60-mile dash sped today 45 miles of Berlin and to within 90 miles of Russian lines, reaching Tangermunde in a massive outflanking maneuver which threatened to isolate the entire Danish Peninsula and shear off Hamburg, Germany's second city.

The Germans announced they had blown the Elbe River bridge at Tangermunde, 48 miles west of Berlin and to the northeast of besieged Magdeburg.

To the south the U. S. Third Army was beating down the last 17 miles toward Leipzig in Saxony in a drive to join the Russians and close off the south German fortress in the Bavarian Alps. The Germans said American tanks were fighting in Halle, 17 miles from Leipzig, after by-passing Merseburg. The Third has fought into Jena, Napoleonic battleground, and thrust to within 34 miles of the Czechoslovak border.

Victory... and Problems

Official word that the European War may end in a few days promises to plunge President Truman into a series of international crises before he has been two weeks in the White House.

The capital is certain the broad war and peace policies laid down by President Roosevelt will be continued by Mr. Truman. Yet there is a wait-and-see attitude about how he will put them into effect.

Mr. Truman's initial strength in foreign affairs probably will lie in his close relations with the Senate. He is expected to build on this, seeking the views of Senate leaders whose task it may be a few months hence to advocate ratification of American membership in a world organization to keep the peace.

Shortly after he became president last night the White House issued statements pointing to what his policies will be:

Military—"The World may be sure that we will prosecute the war on both fronts, east and west, with all the vigor we possess, to a successful conclusion."

Franklin Roosevelt Stricken Suddenly While Taking Rest

Utmost Simplicity To Mark Funeral in White House Saturday Afternoon and Committal Service Sunday at Hyde Park Estate—World Stunned by Unexpected Passing of Leader—Mrs. Roosevelt Bearing Up Heroically

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

(Associated Press Reporter who had "covered" Franklin Delano Roosevelt since 1935)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 13—(P)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt's long and colorful public career is at an end.

A tragic though painless death halted it abruptly yesterday as the nation's 31st president seemingly was about to see the fruition of his plans for bringing lasting peace to a war-ridden world. He was 63 last January 30.

Death came unexpectedly at 4:35 P. M. (EWT) in a simply furnished bedroom of his pine mountain cottage. The cause: A "massive" cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Roosevelt came here March 30 for one of his periodic visits to seek rest and to bask in the sun. He had planned to stay another week, return to Washington, spend a day and start out again for a cross-country trip to San Francisco to open the World Security Conference

April 25.

All this now is up to his successor, Harry S. Truman of Missouri, with the aid of a sympathetic Congress.

The body of the present was enroute on a 23-hour run to Washington today for funeral services in Washington and burial at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The ten car special train, full of friends and associates, got under way at 10:15 A. M. (CWT), and was to arrive in the nation's capital at 10 A. M. (EWT) Saturday.

The body was taken to the train on a motor hearse through a lane of soldiers from Ft. Benning, Ga.

Two thousand soldiers from the Fort Benning Infantry School and Parachute School arrived in the early morning hours to provide an honor guard.

Also on hand at the depot was the 99th Army Ground Forces Band from Fort Benning.

Pallbearers were picked from the Army, Navy and Marines.

Fifty MPs from Ft. Benning provided a lane at the little village station through which the funeral cortege passed. The procession also passed the Warm Springs Foundation administration building where polio patients sat and stood to watch their benefactor pass for the last time.

The winding red dirt road from the Roosevelt Pine Mountain cottage to the foundation gate was filled with troops who led the slow march to the train which began at 9:25 A. M. (CWT).

Mrs. Roosevelt, who flew from Washington last night, rode in the procession.

Behind on foot for the nearly three miles to the train were high ranking Army and Navy officers in this area.

The cortege slowed almost to a standstill at the foundation administration building as it to give the late president an opportunity to say a final farewell to the crippled children. Chief Petty Officer Graham Jackson, Atlanta Negro musician now in the Coast Guard, stood in the center of the patient spectators, and played "Going Home" softly on a piano accordion. Jackson had entertained Mr. Roosevelt many times during his visit to Warm Springs.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived last night from Washington. She flew in an Army plane to Fort Benning at nearby Columbus with Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, and Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, White House physician and Navy Surgeon General.

Funeral services are to be held at 4 P. M. (EWT) Saturday in the East Room of the White House. The body will not lie in state. Burial will be made at the family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., Sunday.

Presidential Secretary William D. Hassett said the funeral services would be of the same "utmost simplicity" the president decreed

CITY SCHOOLS HAVE MEMORIAL FOR PRESIDENT

Two Services in Auditorium: One for High School, One For Grades

Quiet dignity and respect for the man who until Thursday afternoon was president of the United States was reflected in the memorial services for Franklin Delano Roosevelt at the high school auditorium Friday morning.

At 9 A.M., the high school student body filed into the auditorium as Karl J. Kay played the organ. Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church read the 12th chapter of First Corinthians, Roosevelt's favorite Bible verses, and offered prayer.

Miss Sara Keck, dramatic instructor, read three lines from Shakespeare's "Macbeth": "After life's fitful fever he sleeps well. Steel nor poison, malice, domestic, foreign levy Nothing can touch him further."

An instrumental group from the high school played "Onward Christian Soldiers," before Miss Keck read the two selections. The entire group gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag after which the musicians played the national anthem, under the direction of William B. Clift.

A similar service at 10 A.M. was conducted for the students from the five elementary schools with the exception of Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, reading the scripture and offering prayer and Stephen Brown, high school principal, announcing the service. The grade school pupils also repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison.

After the service, the children left the auditorium in single file, quietly and thoughtfully. "It was the finest degree of respect I've ever seen from a group of school students here," Murray said. Flags at the grade school buildings stood at half mast all day Friday. The students were dismissed for the day after the memorial services.

Methodist Church Worship To Honor Roosevelt

Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will speak on "The Passing of Our National Leader" at the regular morning worship service Sunday. The entire hour will be a memorial service honoring President Roosevelt, Rev. Parkin said. The sermon topic he announced Friday was changed from the previously announced subject.

WILSON SCHOOL PUPILS PREVUE HIGH SCHOOL

Eight students from Wilson School today have a prevue of what's in store for them next year.

All eighth graders, the boys and girls toured WHS Thursday afternoon under the guidance of Stephen C. Brown, principal. They saw the auditorium, gymnasium, library, cafeteria, classrooms and all the shops in the rambling high school building. They heard the band rehearsing for its concert Friday night.

These children were Ray Jinks, Bobby Parker, Joy Cockerill, Judy Acton, Don Wilson, Wendell McConaughy, Donald Cockerill and Dennis Mickle.

THURSDAY NIGHT SKATE POSTPONED A WEEK

Washington C. H. youngsters put their skates away for another week as the hastily-planned skating rink on Main Street for Thursday night was not opened as scheduled.

The sudden death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt brought about the decision to postpone the two hour skating for another week.

WHS BAND CONCERT TO BE AS SLATED

Memorial for Roosevelt To Be On Program

The Washington High School concert band will give its performance as scheduled at 8:15 P. M. Friday in the high school auditorium, it was announced today.

A part of the program will be devoted to a memorial for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, William B. Clift, director, said. He did not reveal just what the nature of the memorial would be but indicated it probably would include a prayer.

Although the possibility of postponing the program was considered, it was decided to have the performance as scheduled, it was reported.

SERVICE ON MONDAY FOR MAJ CUNNINGHAM

Legion Committal Ritual at Cemetery

Funeral services conducted by Father Raphael Rodgers will be held for Maj. John F. Cunningham, at St. Colman's Catholic Church at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning and burial is to be in the Washington Cemetery with a military committal service conducted by the Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion.

Maj. Cunningham, a native of Wisconsin and a veteran of 1,000 hours of combat in the air war against Japan in the far Pacific, met death in a collision of two bombers at the Army Air Base at Jackson, Miss., early Wednesday morning.

Although details of the crash were given out sparingly by AAF officers, they did say that 14 had been killed and the planes demolished. Word received by the family of Mrs. Cunningham (formerly Miss Jean Palmer) was that Maj. Cunningham was one of three not badly burned or mangled.

Mrs. Cunningham and their two-year-old son, John, Jr., accompanied by Capt. William Johnson, the military escort provided by the AAF, was to arrive here by train from Jackson via Cincinnati late Friday afternoon with her husband's body, which was to be taken directly to the Klever Funeral Home.

Major Cunningham adopted Washington C. H. as his home following his marriage. Two aunts of Maj. Cunningham came here for the services—Mrs. William Connors of Edgerton, Wis., and Mrs. Paul Fisher of Ft. Atkinson, Wis. Miss Emily Palmer, Mrs. Cunningham's aunt, came from Mansfield.

Ohio and Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920 with Mr. Roosevelt the vice president nominee.

"The United States and the world have lost a great leader," Governor Lausche said. "Through his absence the eventual peace conference will suffer an irreparable loss."

"I believe that if the President now were able to speak to us he would probably ask only one thing, and that is, that we continue shoulder to shoulder in a united effort and march to victory."

Bricker said that "even in political differences there has been a personal friendship between us which I have cherished," and added:

"It is our earnest hope and prayer that the war will be carried on as it will be to the earliest possible complete victory. The nation must uphold the hand of the next president in war."

Former Governor Cox expressed live to see his "two greatest triumphs—victory to our arms and lasting peace for the peoples of the earth."

"In the social and economic reforms, which he has brought to our country, he will rank with Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson. His greatest domestic contribution was the creation of a better life for the average man. That will stand as his monument."

U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft said the President's death "removes the greatest figure of our time at the very climax of his career, and shocks a world in which his words and actions were more important than those of any other man."

for his mother, who died in 1941. Hassett said that six hours after the services in the East Room the body will be entailed for Hyde Park, to arrive at the family estate on the east bank of the Hudson at 9 A. M. Sunday.

Burial will be at 10 A. M. in the family garden between the rambling stone and stucco house and the Roosevelt library.

Members of the cabinet and supreme court, heads of federal agencies, a representative group of senators and representatives, members of the family and friends will accompany the funeral party from Washington.

The East Room services will be conducted by Bishop Angus Dun of the Washington Episcopal Cathedral; Rev. Howard S. Wilkinson, of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, and Rev. John G. Magee, of St. John's Episcopal Church across Lafayette Park from the White House.

The president prayed each March 4 at St. John's until the inaugural date was changed to January 20. In the last two years, however, he attended inaugural services in the White House.

Conducting the burial service at the graveside in Hyde Park will be Rev. Dr. George W. Anthony, new rector of St. James Episcopal Church where the president was senior deacon.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Early and McIntyre were driven immediately to the president's cottage after they arrived by car from Fort Benning shortly before midnight.

Mrs. Roosevelt was described by officials as bearing up "very nobly—heroically."

Warm Springs village and its nearby foundation for after-treatment of infantile paralysis—which Mr. Roosevelt helped found after he had been crippled by the disease—were stunned by the news of the passing of the nation's 31st president and its first chief executive to serve more than two terms.

He was elected to a fourth term a little more than five months ago and was inaugurated January 20. Many had tears in their eyes as they passed the word of Mr. Roosevelt's demise among polo patients and foundation officials.

The patients were looking forward to a visit from the president early last night. They were to put on a minstrel show for him.

Also canceled, just as it was about to get underway, was an old-fashioned southern barbecue at the hilltop cabin of Mayor

Mr. Roosevelt, who was to have been the honor guest, was due at the barbecue around 4:30 P. M. yesterday. When he was not there close to 5 o'clock inquiries were made by the three reporters who came here with the president from Washington.

"Come down to the Carver cottage (headquarters of Secretary Hassett of the foundation) immediately," cried Miss Louise Hackmeister, veteran chief telephone operator at the White House.

Jumping into a car, the representatives of the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service—only reporters here on the war-time off-the-record trip—rushed to the cottage. Each sensed something was wrong when they saw Hassett's sad countenance.

"It is my sad duty to announce the president died at 3:35 P. M. (CWT) of a cerebral hemorrhage," said the tall, gray-haired secretary, his voice quivering. "Dr. Bruenn (Commander Howard Bruenn, of the staff of the Navy Surgeon General, here in the absence of Dr. McIntyre) will give you a medical statement later."

Dr. Bruenn, young New York heart specialist, told the story: That the president was in excellent spirits at 9:30 A. M., but at 1 o'clock complained of a "very severe occipital (back of the head) headache."

"Within a very few minutes," the doctor added, "he lost consciousness. He was seen by me at 1:30 P. M., 15 minutes after the episode had started. He did not regain consciousness and died at 3:35 P. M."

Hassett pieced the story together later.

Miss Laura Delano, a cousin of the president, told Hassett Mr. Roosevelt was sitting in his leather chair in the living room beside the fireplace. A New York artist, N. Robbins, was sketching the president when Mr. Roosevelt put a hand to the back of his head and said: "I have a terrific headache."

Those were the last words he uttered. He lost consciousness almost immediately.

Miss Delano summoned Arthur Prettyman, the president's Negro valet, and a Filipino house boy. The two carried the chief execu-

In the bedroom at the time of death were Dr. Bruenn, who had been summoned from the foundation swimming pool; Dr. James E. Paullin, internal medicine practitioner hurried from Atlanta, 85 miles away, and Lt. Cmdr. George Fox, White House pharmacist.

Fox for years had been at the president's side before he retired each night, helping to relax Mr. Roosevelt's muscles by massage.

Also in the cottage besides Miss Delano was another cousin, Miss Margaret Suckley of Hyde Park, and Grace Tully, confidential secretary to Mr. Roosevelt.

The president was attired in a blue business suit on his last working day. He wore a fore-hand tie for a change from his usual bow. Another addition was a vest. He hardly ever wore one.

Hassett said "The Boss," as everyone at the White House called the president—had just finished signing official papers from Washington.

The last bill he signed was S298 to continue the Commodity Credit Corporation and increase its borrowing power.

He also signed a batch of minor postmaster nominations, some State Department appointments, and gave instructions to Hassett. Yesterday he had started dictating the itinerary of his visit to the United Nations conference at San Francisco. He got only as far as Chicago with his plans.

Mr. Roosevelt was underweight—five or more pounds—since his flu and bronchial attacks of two years ago. He had come here this time to gain the weight at which

THE WAR TODAY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie)

For the third time in the country's long search for peace—for the second time with tremendous world effect—a great American leader has been stricken in the very crisis time of all his efforts.

Had Woodrow Wilson retained his health, and Abraham Lincoln his life, and had they been able to outweigh their opponents, the history of America and the world would have been far different.

Only with the passing of time will we know the effect of Franklin Roosevelt's death at the same Warm Springs where he once regained full use of the life which was to have such a terrific impact on people everywhere.

While President Roosevelt had been even more the commander-in-chief than other war-presidents and while his personal consultations with our Allies on military matters had been all-important, there is consolation on this point. The war with Germany is all but over. Plans for the completion of the war against Japan are so far advanced as to make the need for large-scale revision unlikely. The fitting or non-fitting of Russia into the Japanese campaign is the only remaining military imponderable. Either way the effect in that quarter will be principally on the time and strength required for victory, rather than in the disposition of British and American forces.

Like Wilson and Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt had passed his war crisis. The crisis he faced was peace. Not only victory over present armed enemies, but over the issues which make wars, was the goal he had pursued. He did it with all the power and hope of the United States behind him, and even his bitterest political opponents seldom felt competent to go to the mat with him on his international intentions. But his very personality meant that his relations with Joseph Stalin, Winston Churchill, and other world leaders—yes, with Charles De Gaulle—took on a peculiarly personal color. It leaves us wondering as to the future, knowing that we have lost a leader who had been strangely sensitive to and moulded by 12 years of international crises, military and economic.

YOUTH AND AGE HOLD FATE OF GERMANY THAT HAS LOST MEN TO WAR

through German towns and countryside. These people seem to realize no one can save them but themselves and already they are channeling into rebuilding activities the energy they have poured into the war for five and a half years.

Men of 80 or more totter out to salvage bits of timber for fire or to haul in wood from the forest. I saw one group of old codgers trying to fill a huge bomb crater near Hamburg. Four of them would scrape a few ounces of earth from the surrounding soil and toss them into the crater with long shovels. For four days on the way to and from the battle-front I saw them working in the morning and still at their task in the evening. On the evening of the fifth day the crater was filled and they had moved on to the next one.

People take very seriously the possibility of food shortages against which Eisenhower warned. Most cellars are stocked with home preserved fruits and vegetables and most families have vegetable gardens.

Even milk cows have gone to work in Germany. They pull plows and carts. Draft horses are scarce on farms apparently because they went to war to pull artillery pieces, thus easing the strain on gasoline reserves.

Most of those horses never will plod the countryside again. Easy targets to aerial strafing, thousands

CHOIR CONCERT IS A CAPELLA HERE TUESDAY

Capital Chapel Choir To Appear in High School Auditorium

When the Capital University Chapel Choir sings here Tuesday at 8:15 P.M. in the high school auditorium, the audience will be hearing a group of 50 men and women singing difficult numbers without accompaniment.

Ellis Snyder, conductor of the group which appears here under the sponsorship of the Cecilia Club and the Organ Club, said the choir has dedicated itself to the singing of unaccompanied religious scores. Never in the history of the choir while singing a programmed concert has the choir used an accompanying instrument. Each selection is memorized a month before a concert so that the last thirty rehearsals will be used entirely for blending and perfection of interpretation.

The profits from the chapel choir concert will go to the high school organ fund. Tickets, which will not be reserved, may be obtained from Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, or members of the Cecilia Club.

died in the German retreat across France and Belgium.

Everywhere in Germany you see people tilling and toiling on the road to peace, boarding up shell-torn roofs, scarring earth with brown furrows, standing in long lines before bakery and butcher shops to buy bread and dark sausage. Farm homes are grouped in tiny villages a mile or so apart and the farmers walk to their fields in the morning.

Germany once was described by a writer as "a beautiful prison." It is a shining land with deep, clean rivers, clean rolling hills, and clean forests of ordered beauty bordering fruitful valleys.

"With a country like this to live in," Allied soldiers ask, "what did they want to start a fight for?" Lots of Germans are asking themselves the same question.

NEW SCOUT TROOP AT BLOOMINGBURG

It Will Be Invested Monday at 7:30 P. M.

A brand new Boy Scout troop will be invested at Bloomingburg Monday at 7:30 P.M. X L. Garrison, Boy Scout Field Executive here, said today.

The troop, to be numbered 133, is the first new troop to be organized here this year. Donald Hawks will be the scoutmaster. The boys in the troop are Dean Cory, Gerald Cory, John Glenn, Hugh K. Johnson, Victor Hart, Billy Hart, Lee Templeton and William Arnold.

The troop committee is Iris Scott, Rev. John Glenn and Frank E. Whiteside.

Clark Robinson's Troop 67 from Jeffersonville will put on the investiture ceremony.

WAR SECRETS BILL BLOCKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—A war secrets bill which Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) contents might cut off information from Congress and possibly affect the press has been blocked in the senate on Ferguson's motion.

On Monday the bill was passed by the senate. Yesterday, Ferguson entered a motion for reconsideration of this action.

JUST A FRIENDLY CHAT

This world would be a sportsman's paradise if the streams and lakes never iced over and if they could fish every day in the year without a closed season. The fishermen can do this very thing in the great sea of life—no ice, no chiggers, no mosquitoes, no snakes and no closed season—just fish at one's will. Jesus said, when calling his disciples, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." Mat. 4:19. We are all called to be fishers for the souls of men. Men in their natural state are lost, sinking in the sea of sin, and being carried in its course to a hopeless, Christless eternity. It is the Christian's task and responsibility to cast forth the net of the Calvary Crowned Gospel that men might be caught from its swirling waters for Christ. But men, how can this be done? God, as He has always done, has also supplied this need by giving us the fishing tackle. The rod is the Word, John 1:1. The line is Prayer, Acts 6:4. The hook is Faith, God's magnet, Eph. 2:8. The reel is Tact, 1 Pet. 3:15. And the bait is Love, John 3:16. To make this type of fishing a success all we need to do is to first understand that we are not saved by works, Eph. 2:8-9. But saved by work, Mat. 28:18-20. Then have opened ears to hear the Word of God, and to receive the direction of the Holy Spirit. Open lips to proclaim the Good News that sin's long night is over. And Christ to dwell in our hearts by faith. Then ask for God's guidance and wisdom in fishing lost souls out of the sea of sin into the ocean of His great love. The call is universal. Knowing that our labor is not in vain in the Lord—let's go fishing.

CITY SCHOOLS HAVE MEMORIAL FOR PRESIDENT

Two Services in Auditorium:
One for High School, One
For Grades

Quiet dignity and respect for the man who until Thursday afternoon was president of the United States was reflected in the memorial services for Franklin Delano Roosevelt at the high school auditorium Friday morning.

At 9 A.M. the high school student body filed into the auditorium as Karl J. Kay played the organ. Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church read the 12th chapter of First Corinthians, Roosevelt's favorite Bible verses, and offered prayer.

Miss Sara Keck, dramatic instructor, read three lines from Shakespeare's "Macbeth": "After life's fitful fever he sleeps well. Steel nor poison, malice, domestic, foreign levy Nothing can touch him further."

She also read Kipling's immortal "Recessional." An instrumental group from the high school played "Onward Christian Soldiers," before Miss Keck read the two selections. The entire group gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag after which the musicians played the national anthem, under the direction of William B. Clift.

A similar service at 10 A.M. was conducted for the students from the five elementary schools with the exception of Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, reading the scripture and offering prayer and Stephen Brown, high school principal, announcing the service. The grade school pupils also repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison.

After the service, the children left the auditorium in single file, quietly and thoughtfully. "It was the finest degree of respect I've ever seen from a group of school students here," Murray said.

MEMORIAL IS SUNDAY FOR LATE PRESIDENT

Methodist Church Worship To Honor Roosevelt

Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will speak on "The Passing of our National Leader" at the regular morning worship service Sunday.

The entire hour will be a memorial service honoring President Roosevelt, Rev. Parkin said. The sermon topic he announced Friday was changed from the previously announced subject.

WILSON SCHOOL PUPILS PREVIEW HIGH SCHOOL

Eight students from Wilson School today have a preview of what's in store for them next year.

All eighth graders, the boys and girls toured WHS Thursday afternoon under the guidance of Stephen C. Brown, principal. They saw the auditorium, gymnasium, library, cafeteria, classrooms and all the shops in the rambling high school building. They heard the band rehearsing for its concert Friday night.

These children were Ray Jinks, Bobby Parker, Joy Cockerill, Judy Acton, Don Wilson, Wendell McConaughy, Donald Cockerill and Dennis Mickle.

THURSDAY NIGHT SKATE POSTPONED A WEEK

Washington C. H. youngsters put their skates away for another week as the hastily-planned skating rink on Main Street for Thursday night was not opened as scheduled.

The sudden death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt brought about the decision to postpone the two hour skating for another week.

WHS BAND CONCERT TO BE AS SLATED

Memorial for Roosevelt To Be On Program

The Washington High School concert band will give its performance as scheduled at 8:15 P. M. Friday in the high school auditorium, it was announced today.

A part of the program will be devoted to a memorial for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, William B. Clift, director, said. He did not reveal just what the nature of the memorial would be but indicated it probably would include a prayer.

Although the possibility of postponing the program was considered, it was decided to have the performance as scheduled, it was reported.

WORLD PAYS SAD TRIBUTE TO FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT: FLAGS FLY AT HALF MAST

church and civic leaders paid tribute to the memory of President Roosevelt.

The first public statement early last night came from former Gov. John W. Bricker, the 1944 Republican candidate for vice president, a few minutes before Gov. Frank J. Lausche commented on the loss of "a great leader."

Another tribute came from regret that Mr. Roosevelt could not have been with them at the funeral of James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio.

SERVICE ON MONDAY FOR MAJ CUNNINGHAM

Legion Committal Ritual at Cemetery

Funeral services conducted by Father Raphael Rodgers will be held for Maj. John F. Cunningham, at St. Colman's Catholic Church at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning and burial is to be in the Washington Cemetery with a military committal service conducted by the Paul H. Hughes Post of the American Legion.

Maj. Cunningham, a native of Wisconsin and a veteran of 1,000 hours of combat in the air war against Japan in the far Pacific, met death in a collision of two bombers at the Army Air Base at Jackson, Miss., early Wednesday morning.

Although details of the crash were given out sparingly by AAF officers, they did say that 14 had been killed and the planes demolished. Word received by the family of Mrs. Cunningham (formerly Miss Jean Palmer) was that Maj. Cunningham was one of three not badly burned or mangled.

Mrs. Cunningham and their two-year-old son, John, Jr., accompanied by Capt. William Johnson, the military escort provided by the AAF, was to arrive here by train from Jackson via Cincinnati late Friday afternoon with her husband's body, which was to be taken directly to the Klever Funeral Home.

Major Cunningham adopted Washington C. H. as his home following his marriage.

Two aunts of Maj. Cunningham came here for the services—Mrs. William Connors of Edgerton, Wis., and Mrs. Paul Fisher of Ft. Atkinson, Wis. Miss Emily Palmer, Mrs. Cunningham's aunt, came from Mansfield.

Ohio and Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920 with Mr. Roosevelt the vice president nominee.

"The United States and the world have lost a great leader," Governor Lausche said. "Through his absence the eventual peace conference will suffer an irreparable loss."

"I believe that if the President now were able to speak to us he would probably ask only one thing, and that is, that we continue shoulder to shoulder in a united effort and march to victory."

Bricker said that "even in political differences there has been a personal friendship between us which I have cherished," and added:

"It is our earnest hope and prayer that the war will be carried on as it will be to the earliest possible complete victory. The nation must uphold the hand of the new president in war."

Former Governor Cox expressed live to see his "two greatest triumphs—victory to our arms and lasting peace for the peoples of the earth."

"In the social and economic reforms, which he has brought to our country, he will rank with Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson. His greatest domestic contribution was the creation of a better life for the average man. That will stand as his monument."

U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft said the President's death "removes the greatest figure of our time at the very climax of his career, and shocks a world in which his words and actions were more important than those of any other man."

for his mother, who died in 1941.

Hassett said that six hours after the services in the East Room the body will be entailed for Hyde Park, to arrive at the family estate on the east bank of the Hudson at 9 A. M. Sunday.

Burial will be at 10 A. M. in the family garden between the rambling stone and stucco house and the Roosevelt library.

Members of the cabinet and supreme court, heads of federal agencies, a representative group of senators and representatives, members of the family and friends will accompany the funeral party from Washington.

The East Room services will be conducted by Bishop Angus Dun of the Washington Episcopal Cathedral; Rev. Howard S. Wilkinson, of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, and Rev. John G. Magee, of St. John's Episcopal Church across Lafayette Park from the White House.

The president prayed each March 4 at St. John's until the inaugural date was changed to January 20. In the last two years, however, he attended inaugural services in the White House.

Conducting the burial service at the graveside in Hyde Park will be Rev. Dr. George W. Anthony, rector of St. James Episcopal Church where the president was senior deacon.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Early and McIntyre were driven immediately to the president's cottage after they arrived by car from Fort Benning shortly before midnight.

Mrs. Roosevelt was described by officials as bearing up "very nobly—heroically."

Warm Springs village and its nearby foundation for after-treatment of infantile paralysis—which Mr. Roosevelt helped found after he had been crippled by the disease—were stunned by the news of the passing of the nation's 31st president and its first chief executive to serve more than two terms.

He was elected to a fourth term a little more than five months ago and was inaugurated January 20.

Many had tears in their eyes as they passed the word of Mr. Roosevelt's demise among polio patients and foundation officials.

The patients were looking forward to a visit from the president early last night. They were to put on a minstrel show for him.

Frank W. Alcorn of Warm Springs.

Mr. Roosevelt, who was to have been the honor guest, was due at the barbecue around 4:30 P. M. yesterday. When he was not there close to 5 o'clock inquiries were made by the three reporters who came here with the president from Washington.

"Come down to the Carver cottage (headquarters of Secretary Hassett of the foundation) immediately," cried Miss Louise Hackmeister, veteran chief telephone operator at the White House.

Jumping into a car, the representatives of the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service—only reporters here on the war-time off-the-record trip—rushed to the cottage. Each sensed something was wrong when they saw Hassett's sad countenance.

"It is my sad duty to announce the president died at 3:35 P. M. (CWT) of a cerebral hemorrhage," said the tall, gray-haired secretary, his voice quivering. "Dr. Bruenn (Commander Howard Bruenn, of the staff of the Navy Surgeon General, here in the absence of Dr. McIntyre) will give you a medical statement later."

Dr. Bruenn, young New York heart specialist, told the story: That the president was in excellent spirits at 9:30 A. M., but at 1 o'clock complained of a "very severe occipital (back of the head) headache."

"Within a very few minutes," the doctor added, "he lost consciousness. He was seen by me at 1:30 P. M., 15 minutes after the episode had started. He did not regain consciousness and died at 3:35 P. M."

Hassett pieced the story together later.

Miss Laura Delano, a cousin of the president, told Hassett Mr. Roosevelt was sitting in his leather chair in the living room beside the fireplace. A New York artist, N. Robbins, was sketching the president when Mr. Roosevelt put a hand to the back of his head and said: "I have a terrific headache."

Those were the last words he uttered. He lost consciousness almost immediately.

Miss Delano summoned Arthur Prettyman, the president's Negro valet, and a Filipino house boy. The two carried the chief executive to his bedroom, where he lay on a maple bed.

In the bedroom at the time of death were Dr. Bruenn, who had been summoned from the foundation swimming pool; Dr. James E. Paulin, internal medicine practitioner hurried from Atlanta, 85 miles away, and Lt. Cmdr. George Fox, White House pharmacist.

Fox for years had been at the president's side before he retired each night, helping to relax Mr. Roosevelt's muscles by massage.

Also in the cottage besides Miss Delano was another cousin, Miss Margaret Suckley of Hyde Park, and Grace Tully, confidential secretary to Mr. Roosevelt.

The president was attired in a blue business suit on his last working day. He wore a fore-and-aft tie for a change from his usual bow. Another addition was a vest. He hardly ever wore one.

Hassett said "The Boss"—as everyone at the White House called the president—had just finished signing official papers from Washington.

The last bill he signed was $298 to continue the Commodity Credit Corporation and increase its borrowing power.

He also signed a batch of minor postmaster nominations, some State Department appointments, and gave instructions to Hassett. Yesterday he had started dictating the itinerary of his visit to the United Nations conference at San Francisco. He got only as far as Chicago with his plans.

Mr. Roosevelt was underweight—five or more pounds—since his flu and bronchial attacks of two years ago. He had come here this time to gain the weight at which he felt good. His trips abroad, particularly his last one to the Big Three Yalta conference had taken a lot out of him.

Rumors had gone the rounds in recent days that the president was not picking up as his doctors wished, his grayish color was noticeable under the slight tan he got from working in the sun on his flagstone terrace. He didn't feel like going swimming as was his custom. He went riding—with a chauffeur—another change. He had always enjoyed driving his own car here and at Hyde Park. He had a special steering wheel arrangement which permitted him to use brakes and clutch with the hands.

Mr. Roosevelt began frequent trips here 21 years ago. He contracted polio in 1921 shortly after his first unsuccessful political campaign—he ran for vice president with James M. Cox in 1920—and later found the buoyant waters of the spring helpful to his crippled limbs.

Only in recent months did he forsake the 10-pound metal braces he carried around for years to help him stand in public.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie)

For the third time in the country's long search for peace—for the second time with tremendous world effect—a great American leader has been stricken in the very crisis time of all his efforts.

Had Woodrow Wilson retained his health, and Abraham Lincoln his life, and had they been able to outweigh their opponents, the history of America and the world would have been far different.

Only with the passing of time will we know the effect of Franklin Roosevelt's death at the same Warm Springs where he once regained full use of the life which was to have such a terrific impact on people everywhere.

While President Roosevelt had been even more the commander-in-chief than other war-presidents and while his personal consultations with our Allies on military matters had been all-important, there is consolation on this point. The war with Germany is all but over. Plans for the completion of the war against Japan are so far advanced as to make the need for large-scale revision unlikely. The fitting or non-fitting of Russia into the Japanese campaign is the only remaining military imponderable.

Either way the effect in that quarter will be principally on the time and strength required for victory, rather than in the disposition of British and American forces.

Like Wilson and Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt had passed his war crisis. The crisis he faced was peace. Not only victory over present armed enemies, but over the issues which make wars, was the goal he had pursued. He did it with all the power and hope of the United States behind him, and even his bitterest political opponents seldom felt competent to go to the mat with him on his international intentions. But his very personality meant that his relations with Joseph Stalin, Winston Churchill, and other world leaders—yes, with Charles De Gaulle—took on a peculiarly personal color. It leaves us wondering as to the future, knowing that we have lost a leader who had been strangely sensitive to and moulded by 12 years of international crises, military and economic.

through German towns and countryside. These people seem to realize no one can save them but themselves and already they are channeling into rebuilding activities the energy they have poured into the war for five and a half years.

One of 80 or more totter out to salvage bits of timber for fire or to haul in wood from the forest. I saw one group of old codgers trying to fill a huge bomb crater near Hamburg. Four of them would scrape a few ounces of earth from the surrounding soil and toss them into the crater with long shovels. For four days on the way to and from the battle-front I saw them working in the morning and still at their task in the evening. On the evening of the fifth day the crater was filled and they had moved on to the next one.

People take very seriously the possibility of food shortages against which Eisenhower warned. Most cellars are stocked with home preserved fruits and vegetables and most families have vegetable gardens.

Even milk cows have gone to work in Germany. They pull plows and carts. Draft horses are scarce on farms apparently because they went to war to pull artillery pieces, thus easing the strain on gasoline reserves.

Most of those horses never will plod the countryside again. Easy targets to aerial strafing, thousands

CHOIR CONCERT IS A CAPELLA HERE TUESDAY

Capital Chapel Choir To Appear in High School Auditorium

When the Capital University Chapel Choir sings here Tuesday at 8:15 P.M. in the high school auditorium, the audience will be hearing a group of 50 men and women singing difficult numbers without accompaniment.

Ellis Snyder, conductor of the group which appears here under the sponsorship of the Cecilia Club and the Organ Club, said the choir has dedicated itself to the singing of unaccompanied religious scores. Never in the history of the choir while singing a programmed concert has the choir used an accompanying instrument. Each selection is memorized a month before a concert so that the last thirty rehearsals will be used entirely for blending and perfection of interpretation.

The profits from the chapel choir concert will go to the high school organ fund. Tickets, which will not be reserved, may be obtained from Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, or members of the Cecilia Club.

died in the German retreat across France and Belgium.

Everywhere in Germany you see people tilling and toiling on the road to peace, boarding up shell-torn roofs, scarring earth with brown furrows, standing in long lines before bakery and butcher shops to buy bread and dark sausage. Farm homes are grouped in tiny villages a mile or so apart and the farmers walk to their fields in the morning.

Germany once was described by a writer as "a beautiful prison." It is a shining land with deep, clean rivers, clean rolling hills, and clean forests of ordered beauty bordering fruitful valleys.

"With a country like this to live in," Allied soldiers ask, "What did they want to start a fight for?" Lots of Germans are asking themselves the same question.

WAR SECRETS BILL BLOCKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—A war secrets bill which Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) contends might cut off information from Congress and possibly affect the press has been blocked in the senate on Ferguson's motion.

On Monday the bill was passed by the senate. Yesterday, Ferguson entered a motion for reconsideration of this action.

JUST A FRIENDLY CHAT

This world would be a sportsman's paradise if the streams and lakes never iced over and if they could fish every day in the year without a closed season. The fishermen can do this very thing in the great sea of life—no ice, no chiggers, no mosquitoes, no snakes and no closed season—just fish at one's will. Jesus said, when calling his disciples, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." Mat. 4:19. We are all called to be fishers for the souls of men. Men in their natural state are lost, sinking in the sea of sin, and being carried in its course to a hopeless, Christless eternity. It is the Christian's task and responsibility to cast forth the net of the Holy Spirit. Open lips to proclaim the Good News that sin's long night is over, and Christ to dwell in our hearts by faith. Then ask for God's guidance and wisdom in fishing lost souls out of the sea of sin into the ocean of His great love. The call is universal. Knowing that our labor is not in vain in the Lord—let's go fishing.

Pimples Disappeared Over Night

Yes, it is true, there is a safe harmless medicated liquid called Kiekerx that dries up pimples over night. Those who followed simple directions and applied Kiekerx upon retiring were amazingly surprised when they found their pimples had disappeared. These users enthusiastically praise Kiekerx and claim they are no longer embarrassed and are now happy with their clear complexion. Don't take our word for it, use Kiekerx tonight. Only 50c. If one application does not satisfy, you get your money back. There is no risk so do not hesitate. Sold and recommended by

The World Has Lost a Great Man

Franklin Delano Roosevelt is dead.

The World has lost a great man.

He was president of the United States, but his influence as a champion of the freedom of man knew no international boundaries. He was the balance wheel in international politics of a World at war.

We in America feel his death most deeply. He took over the helm of our country in its greatest crisis, in its darkest hour, and guided it to happiness and prosperity. Then came the war.

With courage and self-sacrificing devotion, and against sometimes harsh criticism and stubborn opposition, he laid the plans for winning the war and the peace to follow.

He died with victory over oppression assured and the foundation for his dream of World security solidly set.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a casualty of the war as much as if he had died from a bullet on the field of battle. His life, his purposes and his memory will be an inspiration to carry on his unfinished task.

But, he was more than a warrior. He was a humanitarian. Leaning a bit to the left of center, as he so frankly said, his thoughts and actions were for the common good of all.

While there were many that disagreed with many of his policies, none ever doubted his sincerity. And, shrewd politician that he was, he never led his country along a course that he had not plainly and boldly charted. He challenged the powerful as the champion of the weak.

Those who disagreed with him called him a super-salesman. But, there never was a president to whom the people felt closer; nor one with the warmth of personality. He had that friendly, almost intimate, quality that gave the feeling to those who had never more than heard his voice that he could drop in and sit down in the garden and chat with understanding of their problems of everyday life.

In him the American people placed their faith and trust. He had lifted them out of a depression that threatened their very homes; he had pointed the way from the depths of despair to a livelihood, he had led them through the grave threat from wars to within sight of peace. They have confidence that he had laid a course to future World security.

And, what of the future? There are pitfalls, but they have been marked and steps taken to avoid them. Precautions have been taken to lessen the hazards of war and the days that will follow. Often it was a one-man job, and not easy, to make freedom-loving Americans see the wisdom of controlling dangerous wartime tendencies. Franklin Delano Roosevelt's courage and vision will become more apparent with the passing of time.

It is difficult, sometimes to see into the blackness of the future at a time like this; it is difficult to understand. But there always has been a Divine Providence from which to take strength and things always have turned out for the best. There is no reason to lose faith now.

His death places a tremendous responsibility on Harry S. Truman, who within three hours was sworn in as the thirty-

One-Minute Test

1. What president of the United States appointed William Howard Taft to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court?
2. What is meant by gag rule in the U. S. House of Representatives?
3. Can a U. S. senator serve on more than one committee at a time?

Words of Wisdom

A wise man will always be contented with his condition, and will live rather according to the precepts of virtue, than according to the customs of his country.—Antisthenes.

Hints on Etiquette

Try to be tactful as well as sympathetic. If a wife mentions that she is worried about her husband who has varicose veins, do not remark that a man you know recently died of them or had to have his leg taken off.

Today's Horoscope

You are quiet, unassuming and easy-going, yet you tackle obstacles with a rigid, unyielding purpose. Your persistence should bring you success. You are not inclined toward social life, but your few friends are loyal. Neptune dominates the cosmic horizon today, so put on your psychological brakes. Your ingenuity may not be able to cope with the inopportune or congenial idiots who make hazards doubly dangerous.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. President Harding.
2. It refers to the regulations for the limitation of debate.
3. He may serve on several committees and usually does so.

third president of the United States to succeed him. But, he has people of the World's most powerful nation united behind him with a determination to carry on. The Army and Navy high command know their late commander-in-chief's war strategy and the State Department has the complete outline of his peace and security plans.

We can be grateful that we had Franklin Delano Roosevelt; that we had him to lead us through those dark days of depression and the menace of wars and to lay out a course for those who take up his great responsibilities to follow.

As Edward M. Staunton said of Abraham Lincoln when an assassin's bullet took him when he seemed needed most, Franklin Delano Roosevelt now belongs to the ages—he has become one of the World's immortals—one of the really great men of history.

Mines and Men

It is sad to see what strip coal mining, quarrying and so on, are doing to the once fair face of Mother Nature in this country. A shocked observer in southeastern Ohio says: "I have stood on the brows of hills and looked for miles in every direction, to see nothing but waste and destruction, hummocks bare to the elements and winding gorges gouged from the beautiful hills, and I have been appalled at the spectacle. That's what strip mining does to a country, the people tell you." And others say sadly, "Well, what can you do? People must have coal, and mining is a dirty and untidy business."

Probably it needn't be so untidy, if more public sentiment were aroused to take care of such refuse. Old coal and ore mines are sometimes observed, from which the refuse has been cleared away and replaced by pleasant homes. Maybe all that is required is to get rid of the rubbish in the first place, and replace the top soil. There should be established rules about it. Where public sentiment is not prepared for that part of the job, it might be cultivated.

The Value of Vaccines and Other Treatment in Colds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A GREAT deal of discussion has recently arisen because of the question as to whether or not vaccines are useful in the treatment of colds. The general consensus at present would seem to be that not a great deal is to be gained in most instances by the widespread use of such preparations, although they may be found of value in certain persons. In general, measures for preventing and treating colds have not been successful. The protection against colds which develops in the body during an attack does not last very long.

According to Doctor Anderson C. Hilding of Duluth, Minnesota, immunity against colds cannot be brought about by vaccines, nor is there any protection attained by spraying a vaccine into the nose and throat. The use of vitamin products, cold bath and exercise is thought by many to be equally ineffective. The administration of sulfonamide drugs has been suggested as a method of prevention, but because of the danger of reactions from these preparations, their widespread use in the prevention of colds would hardly appear advisable. They may help in the prevention of complications. In places where large groups of people get together, such as in a hospital or similar institution, disinfection of the air with antiseptic chemicals may be effective in preventing the spread of colds.

The sulfonamide drugs have come into widespread use in the treatment of colds. Their chief value is in the prevention of complications such as ear infections, severe sore throat, or pneumonia. When any of these conditions threaten, the physician will prescribe the proper sulfonamide drug in the right dose.

Of course, a patient with a cold will do best if he remains at rest in bed so as to prevent chilling and fatigue. The complete answer to the problem of colds has, as yet, not been found.

Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Hay Fever."

"THE MAN BEHIND THE SMILE"

I don't know how he is on creeds, I never heard him say; But he's got a smile that fits his face And he wears it every day.

He sees the good in everyone. Their faults he never mentions; He has a lot of confidence In people's good intentions.

You'll know him if you meet him, And you'll find it worth your while To cultivate the friendship of "The Man Behind the Smile."

Mrs. Ruby E. Hines.

Fortunately all do not achieve maturity at the same time! Some do not accomplish that until they get in their sixties, but many achieve senility very early. It is a constant struggle between these groups; those dead, half dead, and those still moving. It is so easy to have all kinds of motions and emotions in life and have those apparently make up the whole. Direction is what we want, direction of these impulses. The people who give it must have a deep sympathy for youth, whether they be parents or teachers. They must realize that times change and people must change with them but that firm essentials of life, the fundamentals, stay on just about the same. It is difficult for us not to put too high a credit on docility in youth. The thing that many teachers give the greatest rewards for is docility. Do not put too much faith in that. Guided aggression, guided advance, youth under power and impulse and going ahead in the right direction with the spiritual element in it—that is the thing for which we wish to stand.

HELEN COMES HOME

by Watkins E. Wright

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

BUT HELEN didn't answer Paul when he tumbled out and up to the wrecked plane. She had fainted.

A farmer ran out. Several people followed him.

"Telephone to town!" Paul said. "Order an ambulance."

But it wasn't necessary. The town already knew. Someone had seen the plane falling, and an ambulance was on its way. It came, and behind it, in his own car, came Philip. Other cars came, and Helen and Helen were placed in the ambulance—and the little blue plane burned to a crisp.

"I'm all right," said Paul. "Just my leg cut." He looked at Helen. "Good Lord, she's got burns on her hands—and face!"

"She'll be all right," said the interne. "Surface burns only. She got out just in time."

The ambulance sped on. So did Philip's car, following close behind. Paul and Helen in there, he thought. Together. Brought even closer by sharing a near-tragedy. What chance had he now? Paul and Helen—together for always.

Miss Minerva, riding in a car she had commandeered, met the ambulance and Philip's car.

"How is she?" she wanted to know, fear in her voice. "Is she all right?"

"She'll be okay in a few days," came the answer.

"They didn't even find it necessary to take Helen to the hospital. They took her to the old Miller home—stead and she was put to bed in her own room. She looked up and smiled.

"Helen comes home," she said.

Aggie, standing beside the bed, fought back tears. "You're darned tootin', honey," she said. "God was certainly good to us all today."

When the burns had been properly dressed, and Helen was resting easily, she looked about her.

"Where's Paul?" she asked.

"Here I am," he said. He came forward. "Lord, honey, you had me scared. And"—his voice was low, grateful—"and you saved my life, such as it is."

"Don't be too dramatic," Helen smiled. "And trot along to your planting. Don't forget we've got a war to win."

"When do I see you—about that other matter?" Paul wanted to know.

"Soon," said Helen. "As soon as I can get back the rest of my face." She held out one of her bandaged hands. "Take care of yourself, Paul—for always."

He lifted the hand to his lips and kissed it. Then when he was gone, and the others had drifted down stairs to see about offering some hospitality to Senator Simpson and Colonel Smathers, Helen closed her eyes. Thank God, she need no longer wonder about Paul and Philip. Now she knew—she knew—beyond any shadow of a doubt. Life was going to be very sweet—very sweet indeed.

Downstairs, while Colonel Smathers smacked his lips over one of Zeke's mint juleps, and while Aggie listened to his aide-de-camp tell how she reminded him of a girl he had left back home, Senator Simpson was talking earnestly with Miss Minerva.

"Look here, Min," he said. "I—"

"Don't call me 'Min'!" Miss Minerva interrupted. "You know I hate it."

The senator smiled and patted her hand. "All right, Min—I mean, Minerva—" he said. "But what I started out to say is this—why" don't you let this Philip Brown take over and come on up to Washington for a visit?"

"I don't like Washington," said Miss Minerva. "It's the coldest place in winter, and the hottest in the summer."

"All right, you old stick-in-the-mud," the senator said affectionately. "Have your own way about that. But I'm going to have my way about getting married."

"Who you planning to marry?"

"You!"

"Me?"

"Yes. Who else, for Pete's sake?"

"But, Senator, at our age?"

"Age has nothing to do with it. The moment I can manage to get away long enough for a honeymoon, I'm going to come back here and march you to a minister."

"Very well, Senator—just as you say," Miss Minerva said smilingly. "You're the doctor, Senator Simpson."

"And don't call me 'Senator,'" the man said. And he would have kissed Minerva then and there if Philip hadn't walked in.

"Darn!" said the senator.

"What's wrong?" Philip said.

"You're the crowd, young man—you're the crowd."

"Gosh, I'm sorry!" said Philip. He turned to Miss Minerva. "Will it be all right for me to go up to see Helen now?"

"Of course," said Miss Minerva. "Where in the dickens have you been? Why haven't you seen her before?"

"I had to calm 'em out at the plant," said Philip. "Had to get everything to running smoothly."

"All right. Go on upstairs now. The room over this one."

"Yes'm."

"A man in a million," said Miss Minerva as she watched Philip hurry away.

"Maybe he is," said the senator. "But I'm still here."

Miss Minerva patted his cheek and they slipped out through a window that let out upon the porch. They were standing there, just as they had stood many years before, hand in hand, gazing off into the distance, when Philip looked into the room where Helen lay.

"May I come in?" he called out softly.

"Yes, Philip," Helen said. "Do come in, please. I've got something to tell you."

"Here it comes—the pay-off!" Philip thought, as he crossed the room. Aloud he said: "You're not suffering any, are you, Helen?"

"No, Philip. I feel fine—believe it or not."

He sat down in a chair close to the bed. "Reckon you won't be flying any more for a time," he said.

"Not until Paul gets a new plane."

"I don't mind," said Helen. "I've got plenty to do without flying."

Silence, Philip then, bent forward in the low chair, his hands clasped tightly between his knees, and Helen looking at him, trying to find words to tell him what she had to tell him.

"Philip," she said.

"Yes, Helen?"

"You remember what I said about something cataclysmic happening to—to force me to make a decision?"

"Yes—I remember."

"Well, it happened today."

"The crash?"

"Yes."

"I see."

"And I made my decision," Helen said quietly. "I made it when I was trying to pull Paul out of the burning plane."

"You mean it was then you decided which man it was you loved?"

"Yes, Philip."

"All right. I'm waiting," said Philip.

"You're the man, Philip, darling," Helen said.

"I?" Philip gasped, sitting up very suddenly.

"Yes, Philip, and why so surprised?"

"Why, I thought—pulling Paul away from death—that he was the man."

"Wrong," said Helen. She sat up, laid a bandaged hand upon Philip's head. "I knew it was you I loved, darling," she went on, "when I came so near crashing down into the crowd around the plant. I got a quick, fleeting glimpse of your upturned white face, and I knew—I knew."

Philip sank to his knees beside the bed. "Oh, my darling—my darling," he said.

"I knew," Helen went on, "that if you were killed when the plane crashed, that—that I wouldn't want to go on living. It came to me that strongly, Philip."

She was in his arms now—and a stray sunbeam, pushing an inquisitive finger through the slats of the blinds, touched them very, very tenderly.

Aggie Jones, with a cold in her head, her hair in curlers, and wearing lounging pajamas, huddled in bed and watched her friend, Helen Miller, who sat in front of the dressing table examining a wedding veil.

"Believe me," she said finally, "you're going to be a knockout of a bride. Lucky you, landing something extra in the way of males."

"You're going to be a knockout as a bridesmaid, too," said Helen.

"At last!" said Aggie. She sneezed violently. "Unless this draught cold keeps me from being among those present."

"You'll be there," said Helen. "You know you always get a pin-ceremonial on a cold sooner or later."

Aggie sighed. "Jim'll be here, anyway," she sighed again. "Now there's a man," she said, "who knows a woman's real value. That is, he doesn't just consider her face."

"I know," said Helen gently. "He knows a heart of gold when he sees it."

"Exactly," said Aggie. "Although I'm not handing myself bouquets."

"Well, I am!" said Helen. She folded the veil and placed it in a box. "Go to sleep now, honey, and get all rested up. If you aren't well enough to be my bridesmaid day after tomorrow, I'll postpone the wedding."

Aggie sat up. "You'll do nothing of the sort!" she said. "There's been too much postponing of marriages around here. You don't want to be like your Aunt Minerva, do you—stay a spinster for years?"

"No," said Helen.

"Then you get busy and get married," said Aggie. "I'm going to work on Jim—that aide-de-camp, and see if he'll fall. Maybe by the time he decides I'm the sunshine of his life, Miss Minerva and the senator will have their plans all set. And then—"

"Then," said Helen, laughing. "We should ask for a wholesale price on wedding gowns and orange blossoms."

She turned then and hurried out. Philip was waiting for her at the foot of the stairs. She quickened her steps, tempted to slide down the banister to save time, and went to his arms.

Many Plan To Attend District WSCS Meeting

A number of Washington C. H. members of the Wilmington District Women's Society of Christian Service will go to Cedarville on Tuesday, April 17, for the annual spring conference, it was announced today by Mrs. Rose Hughey, president of the Grace Methodist Church WSCS.

Mrs. Frank Creswell, district WSCS president, of Cedarville, has announced to the 140 societies which comprise the Wilmington district that the meetings this year have been divided into three groups with separate meeting dates and places.

Normally the spring meeting was one single convention but because of the war effort to conserve tires and gas, the district has been divided into three areas and the three sessions will be held at more conveniently located places. The program will be the same at all three places.

Mrs. Murray Titus of India is to headline the speaking program. She is the wife of Dr. Murray Titus who spent 35 years in India as a missionary and for the last three years there served as president of Lucknow College. For the past two years he has been in New York serving as secretary for the India work in the United States. Dr. and Mrs. Titus plan to return to India in the near future, as soon as war conditions permit.

Miss Emma Palm of China, who will speak in this city on Monday night before the Wesleyan Service Guild and guests at Grace Church, is also to share the speaking program.

Convening at 9:45 A.M. (slow time) luncheon will be served at noon and the meeting will adjourn at 3:30 P.M. Over 1,000 women are expected to participate in the three sessions over the district.

Frances White Hostess for Thursday Dinner

Miss Frances White capably performed the many duties of an excellent hostess when she entertained members of the Past Presidents' Club, Business and Professional Women with a dinner on Thursday evening, at the Pickaway Arms in Circleville.

Three guests were included with the members for the dinner. They were Mrs. Ada King, Mrs. Viva White and Miss Catherine Croker. Seated at one large table which was handsomely appointed in gleaming silver and table service, the members and guests delightedly partook of a veritable feast of delicious viands.

During the dinner hour, various topics pertaining to the club of which each has served as president, were discussed.

Those present included Miss Helen King, Miss Edith Wilson, Mrs. Vernice Deafner, Miss White and the three guests.

China Missionary To Speak Here On April 16

A special feature has been planned for the April meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Grace Methodist Church when they meet on Monday evening, April 16, at the church basement for a seven o'clock dinner, followed by a program.

After-dinner speaker will be Miss Emma Palm, a returned missionary from China where she was head of a hospital which is supported by the Wilmington district of Methodist Churches. She begins speaking at 8:30 P.M. and the public is invited to hear the traveled Miss Palm tell of her experiences with our allies, the Chinese people, in Sien-yu, China.

Kensington Club Session Thursday Is Enjoyed

Many members of the Thursday Kensington Club were present at the home of Mrs. George B. Parkin for their regular meeting Thursday.

Several attractively arranged bouquets of lilacs and other spring flowers were placed throughout the home bringing the beauty of spring into the meeting.

The hour of sewing was brought to a close when the hostess summoned the guests into the dining room. They were seated at the long dining table and two small tables which were gaily centered with spring flowers. Here a tempting salad course was served by the hostess.

One of several communication officers stationed with the WAVES in San Francisco, Calif., chosen to assist at the San Francisco Conference of the Allied Nations to plan the peace is Lt. (Junior Grade) Carolyn Craig Franklin who has been stationed in San Francisco for around a year and a half.

The daughter of Mrs. Clarence E. Craig, 504 East Street, this city, Lt. Craig enlisted in the WAVES in the fall of 1943. She received a B. A. degree from Denison University, Granville, and a degree in library science from Simmons College, Boston, Mass. Before enlisting in the WAVES in October, 1943, she was a member of the faculty of Tasell Junior College in Boston.

Lt. (J. G.) Franklin was commissioned ensign after training at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and received further training as a communication officer at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass. She was then assigned to San Francisco, Calif., in February, 1944.

Lt. Craig's many friends here will be quite interested to learn of this most recent honor bestowed upon the talented and personable young woman.

UNCLE SAM TO HAND OUT 44,200,050 EXTRA RED POINTS

The greatest windfall of extra red points ever is going this month, and each month following, to American housewives throughout the country.

44 million extra red points, approximately, will be handed out by meat dealers to customers who turn in used fats in a great Victory drive for this essential of medicines, gunpowder, synthetic rubber, soap, paints and a hundred other necessities on the battlefield and home front. For each pound of fats turned in, every housewife is entitled to 2 red points.

The need for used fats is still urgent. Women are urged to save every drop, every spoonful of grease possible and keep saving until final Victory over both Germany and Japan.

Personals

Rev. and Mrs. J. K. Abernethy and son, Knox, and Mrs. William H. Brown of Knightstown, Ind., are to be dinner guests Friday evening in Circleville of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Kennedy.

Mr. William C. Campbell, Mr. Werr Shoop, Miss Lena Smith, Miss Bess Shoop, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kelley, and Mr. Richard Willis attended the annual Horseman's dinner party at the Fox Farm in Chillicothe, Thursday evening. Around 100 persons attended the affair from all over Ohio.

Mrs. Amanda Kier and Miss Clara Lee Naylor were Thursday visitors in Columbus.

Mrs. Chan Hyer and daughter, Miss Mary Jane Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pressler were Thursday afternoon visitors in Columbus, on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph S. Wolfe of Columbus were Thursday visitors in this city and while here visited friends.

Mrs. Ralph W. Hyer and Mrs. Wallace Noon were Thursday visitors in Columbus.

Miss Achsah Mayo spent Thursday in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Andrews had as Wednesday evening dinner guests, Mrs. Charles Andrews, and Mrs. Laura Andrews. The dinner was in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Charles Andrews.

Miss Wanda Arnold, Mrs. Willis Reinehl and Mrs. Richard Kirkpatrick were in Columbus Wednesday evening for the stage appearance of the Ink Spots.

After spending three months in Fort Myers, Fla., with Cpl. and Mrs. Joseph Heiland and family, Mrs. Earl Hickie and daughter, Sandra Sue, are to arrive in Cincinnati, Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Paris Custer, her parents, plan to meet her and their granddaughter when they arrive by plane. Also arriving in Cincinnati this evening will be Staff-Sgt. Earl Hickie who has a 10 day furlough from Fort McClellan, Ala.

Three Guests Present at Elmwood Aid

Thursday afternoon twenty-one members of the Elmwood Aid Society gathered at the home of Mrs. Carson Maddux with three guests present. They were Mrs. Henry Hoppes and daughter of Dayton and Mrs. Tillie VanGundy.

Highlighting the afternoon of entertainment were the amusing and entertaining readings given by Mrs. Gladys Garver, Mrs. Ed Browning and the hostess, Mrs. Maddux.

Many attractive bouquets of spring flowers had been placed throughout the room, which influenced the gaiety of the social hour. The hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Browning, Mrs. Effie LeVeck, Mrs. Margaret Nickols, Mrs. Gladys Garber and Mrs. Belle Arbogast, served light refreshments to the happy group who had greatly enjoyed the afternoon session.

Three Hostesses At DAR Meet In Jeffersonville

Mrs. Harold W. Zimmerman of the Jackson Road was a charming hostess Wednesday afternoon to the William Horney Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the regular meeting. The scheduled hostesses were Mrs. E. F. Todhunter, Mrs. Forest DeBra, and Mrs. Elton Elliott.

The Regent, Mrs. A. E. Kemp, opened the meeting in ritualistic form which was followed by one verse of "America." The chairman, Mrs. H. J. Smith, conducted the devotional service. The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. W. W. Williams, flag chairman.

The yearly report of the chapter, usually given at the state conference, but this year published in the "Ohio O.A.R. News," was read by Mrs. Lillian Ervin.

A press report taken in part from the radio broadcast made by Representative Frederick C. Smith (R-Ohio) in which he assailed the Bretton-Woods proposal plan, was read by the Regent, Mrs. Kemp, who had heard his broadcast. This called forth a lively discussion of the dangers of this plan for our country by chapter members.

The president's general message was read by Mrs. Mildred Fent. Mrs. H. J. Smith, conservation chairman, read an interesting and enlightening paper on "Plastics and Our National Resources."

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the display of an old fashioned silk lace fichu, a neck scarf, over a 100 years old belonging to Mary Horney Mock, who was the great great grandmother of Lillian Wright Ervin, who is the proud owner of this quaint treasure.

A delightful social hour followed during which the hostess served tempting refreshments.

Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Louise Vannorsdall and Mrs. Eva Allen.

FLAGS FLYING AT HALF STAFF IN COMMUNITY

Silent Tribute Paid to Passing Of Great U. S. Leader

Flags were flying at half-staff here Friday in silent tribute to the passing of a great American, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. News of his death came with stunning suddenness late Thursday afternoon.

The flags will be kept at half-staff, like those wherever the Stars and Stripes are unfurled throughout the world, during a period of mourning for the departed president.

When news of President Roosevelt's death was flashed to the world sometime after he had died, it brought deep sadness to a host of people in this community, and men and women both shed tears as they realized that the leader of the American nation was no more, and that his death had come at a time when he was most needed.

In a few minutes the telephone system was jammed with countless calls, and no news in years spread with the great rapidity as did that of the President's death.

There was unmistakable sadness in the faces of people in all walks of life, and more than one little group on the streets spoke of his death with tears streaming down their faces.

A great many telephone calls to The Record-Herald asked for verification of the report that President Roosevelt had died suddenly, and radios were turned on and kept tuned in for news broadcasts throughout the evening.

As an example of how the news was received here, a man, apparently a stranger in the city, hearing the news broadcast while eating in a local restaurant, bowed his head in tears and soon left the table.

A woman who had just heard the sad news was walking along Court Street, wiping away the tears.

A friend halted the weeping woman and asked:

"What is the matter?"

"President Roosevelt is dead, and what are we going to do?" she sobbed.

No public official's death since the assassination of President William McKinley, at the World's Fair in Buffalo, in 1906 has caused such general public sorrow as the death of President Roosevelt.

During the last two presidential campaigns a host of people, in Fayette County, regardless of party lines, had voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt because they felt that he was the logical man, regardless of party or past mistakes, to lead America through the pitfalls of the most critical time in world history.

LOCAL COAL DEALERS MADE DEFENDANT

OPA Files Seventeen Suits in Federal Court

Clyde K. Smith, Washington C. H. coal dealer, and Alvin Fultz, are two of 17 persons and firms made defendants in suits filed in the federal court at Columbus, Thursday, for judgment growing out of alleged violations of ceiling prices.

Smith is one of seven coal dealers against whom suits for treble damages were filed. Judgment for $2,160 is asked of Smith, who deals in coal trucked here from southeastern Ohio. Damages amounting to $90 are asked of Fultz.

One of the filed asks treble judgment of $55,370.22 from the H. H. Giesy & Bros., Columbus, for alleged sale of pine lumber above ceiling prices.

MRS. SAMUEL M. ROUSH FUNERAL RITES HELD

Largely attended funeral services for Mrs. Samuel M. Roush were held Thursday at 2:30 P. M. at the Klever Funeral Home, and were conducted by Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church.

Rev. Parkin read the Scriptures, offered prayer, delivered the sermon, and spoke in highest praise of the Christian life of Mrs. Roush.

He read the three hymns "Come Ye Disconsolate," "When On My Day The Night Is Falling," and "Eternal Goodness."

There were many lovely floral gifts from relatives and friends over a wide area.

Interment was made in the family lot in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Roy and Walter Fultz, Herbert Wilson, J. Roush Burton, Marjory Mark and Orville Bush.

LEGION HOST TO OVER 100 AT OPEN HOUSE

Magician Entertains Men Discharged and Active Who Were Guests

Backing up its policy of welcoming servicemen, either active or discharged, of the present World War, the American Legion Thursday night played host to more than 100 men at its open house in the American Legion Home when Elmar, the magician from Springfield, presented an hour of sparkling entertainment.

Robert Jefferson greeted the visitors and extended an invitation to discharged veterans to join the American Legion. Already 45 discharged servicemen are members of the veteran's organization. Thursday 35 other discharged men who are not yet members attended the meeting, it was reported.

Six active servicemen also were present—Sgt. Richard Patton, S-Sgt. Walter A. Robinson, Pfc. Eugene Orr, Lt. Herbert Sprenger (USN), Lt. William C. Miller and Cpl. Lester R. Dickey.

R. B. Sharp, program chairman, presented the magician whose clever tricks and jokes kept the crowd entertained. Elmar previously had appeared in Washington at the Lions Club father, son and daughter meeting.

Refreshments were served after the program by Arthur Maddux and his committee.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL SERVICE SET HERE

First Presbyterian Church Plans Service Saturday

A memorial service for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled at 3 P. M. Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church here, Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor, said today.

The scripture reading and prayer service will be held simultaneously with the funeral services for the late president in the East Room of the White House Saturday afternoon. Rev. Abernethy will conduct the service.

The church will be open from 2 P. M. to 5 P. M. Rev. Abernethy said. Anyone is welcome either to attend the service or to enter the church for meditation and prayer, he added.

SHRINE BANQUET IS ATTENDED BY 125 THURSDAY

Candidates Present Petitions; Tribute Is Paid To Late President

More than 125 Shriners were at the Country Club here for the annual Shrine Banquet Thursday night.

Because John Summers, chief potentate of the Aladdin Temple in Columbus, was called to Cleveland on business, he was unable to attend the meeting here.

Eight candidates presented their petitions at the Thursday banquet, however, a banquet which probably would have been cancelled had the news of President Roosevelt's death come earlier in the day. Dr. Frank Starr, assistant chief rabban of the temple, spoke in the brief tribute paid the late president at the meeting, speaking not from a political viewpoint but from the viewpoint of an American citizen saddened by the loss of his chief executive. Roosevelt was a Shriner of the Albany Commandery and also was a Scottish Rite Mason in Albany.

The Pledgers under the direction of Ad Ritter, furnished musical entertainment at the banquet. Ralph Shirkey and Leo Phillips of the Aladdin Canters sang as a feature of the program also.

Attending the meeting were William Berkheimer, chief rabban, Thomas Bangs, high priest and prophet, Ray Zirkel, Recorder, Harry Carson and Neath Jones, past potentates and Starr, assistant chief rabban.

Webster French pronounced the invocation and Colin C. Campbell was toastmaster at the banquet. Committees were Walter Craig, chairman, banquet committee; Colin Campbell, chairman, finance committee; Earl Parker, chairman, membership committee; Hoy Simmons, chairman, reception committee and George Steen, chairman, decorating committee.

The Country Club dining room was decorated with banners with Shrine insignia American flags and green and yellow and red crepe paper streamers down the center of the tables on which flower centerpieces were placed.

Ronald Cornwell, Selby Gerstner and Joe Campbell were honored in a brief tribute paid them as Shriners who now are in the service. Dr. R. M. Hughey and Ralph Childs, also Shriners who were unable to attend because of illness, were remembered.

GI BILL OF RIGHTS DISCUSSED BY FB

Union Township Council IV Meet Thursday

The GI Bill of Rights, the national farmers' agricultural poll and the Fair display were topics of discussion when Union Township Farm Bureau Council IV met Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Pelt.

Ray Warner, president of the council, and Joseph McFadden conducted the discussions at the meeting where Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Steiner and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McVey were admitted as new members.

The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Dick Witherspoon.

The next meeting of the council will be May 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lucas.

POMONA GRANGE TO WRITE NOTE TO ROOSEVELTS

The Late President's Family Are Members of a New York Grange

Pomona Grange, whose membership represents each of the six subordinate Granges in the county, will write a letter of condolence to the Roosevelt family, it was voted at a meeting at the Good Hope Grange Thursday night.

The Roosevelts are members of long standing of a Grange in New York, it was pointed out, when J. N. Baughn, a farmer who lives on the Dayton Pike, paid tribute to the late president.

Four new members, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Campbell, Everett Dale Campbell and Mrs. Leona Morgan, were received into the Grange also Thursday night.

On the lecture hour, guests from the Greenfield Grange played piano solos; John Haaf, president of the Grange Mutual Casualty Insurance Company, spoke briefly; the used clothing drive was announced and legislative bills were discussed.

At the next Pomona Grange meeting June 14, a house dress contest among the women is scheduled, Mrs. Loren Hynes, chairman of the home economics committee, announced.

Refreshments of doughnuts and coffee were served after the meeting.

Poland China BOARS and GILTS
(45 Head)

SATURDAY, APRIL 21
FAIR GROUNDS — WASHINGTON C. H.
Sale starts at 1 P. M. — But come early as this lot will be worth looking over.

PLEASE NOTE!
The government has asked for an increase of twenty percent in the fall farrowing of pigs.
Save time, feed and money by raising Poland Chinas.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING
Poland Chinas are advancing on every front. Their increasing popularity is due not to propaganda but performance. Poland Chinas will fatten at any age and produce what the public demands—a superior quality of meat and lard. Poland Chinas produce more pounds of pork per pig or per litter at any given age, as shown by official records. Poland Chinas are adapted to all climatic feed conditions. They thrive and produce pork cheaply from Canada to the Equator.

Poland Chinas are best for pig club work because of their superior size and easy-feeding qualities. Poland China sows are good mothers. They farrow and raise large litters. Play safe, don't gamble, raise Poland Shinas. When better pigs are produced, a Poland China sow will farrow them!
